Levens Hall and Gardens

The Topiary Gardens at Levens are world-famous in their own right and are a must for any visitor. When Col. Grahme, who had held the office of Privy Purse to King James II, came back to Levens in 1688 upon the abdication of the King he brought with him the gardener Monsieur Guillaume Beamount, who had been trained under Le Notre at Versailles. Another garden created by him was Hampton Court. He started work in 1694 creating the gardens you see today at Levens. Under the magnificent topiary, depending on the time of your visit, you will find colourful spring or summer bedding. There is also a rose garden, a nuttery, fine herbaceous borders, and a fountain garden laid out with pleached limes to celebrate 300 years of the Gardens at Levens. Well worth a visit.
